Best Buy – “It’s blended with a touch of syrah, but it’s petite through and through, ripened to a fragrant black raspberry sheen and undergirded by cool, dark tannins. Long, dry and not jammy in the least, it will suit game like wild boar and venison this winter and for quite a few after.”

“Inky ruby. Dark berries and licorice candy on the black pepper-accented nose. Dense, broad and smooth, with gentle acidity giving shape and lift to sweet blackberry, plum, cassis and licorice flavors. The broad finish features lush tannins and shows very good, spicy persistence. Pretty elegant for the variety, especially from Paso Robles.”

“Similar in every respect to the '09 vintage, a softly ripe wine that's drinkable now despite Petite Sirah's firm tannins. It's very delicious, showing candied blackberries, cherries, currants and chocolate.”
